

New Year's Day

New Year's Race for the Chili!

Thursday, January 1st , 2015

Point San Pablo Yacht Club

This year the forces are against us. The plug to the Pacific Ocean (and our Bay) is being pulled to empty it. There will be a low of -1.6 feet starting in the morning. You will all be sailing against a massive ebb or flood. So new rules this year: start the race at any time and location you choose. Just make sure you have a starting time. Plan on being at Point San Pablo Yacht by three o'clock. (It is still dark early!)

Bring your favorite chili or a great side dish. We always have room for great cooks and beautiful boats at the club.

Remember this is the best day of the year. It's Tacky Trophy time!! Clean out your bilge or that pile of stuff in your garage or back yard. Have the pleasure of inflicting a gift to that person you really want to get for some revenge.

Morning: Start your race

Bring some food and a smile.

Don't forget the Trophy – as many as you want to inflict on fellow members. Get back at that vessel ahead of you at the regatta.

Let's start the New Year with great friends and good food.

Hope to see you all there on the first - by boat, vehicle or something exotic.

Point San Pablo Yacht Club, <http://www.pspyc.org/>, has good guest docks for rafting and plenty of parking.
